The Department of Humanities (Journalism) organized a guest lecture titled “Digital Ink and Global Think” on 11th March 2025. The session was conducted by Dr. Juby Thomas, Associate Professor at Kristu Jayanti College. The lecture aimed to provide insights into interpersonal relationships, strategies to tackle obstacles in career pathways, and the significant role of media in today’s world.

Program Objective:

1. To enhance students' understanding of the global media landscape.
2. To provide practical insights into the challenges and opportunities in the journalism and media industry.
3. To encourage critical thinking and problem-solving skills among students.
4. To equip students with strategies for career growth and success in media-related fields.

The lecture began with Dr. Thomas sharing her experiences in the journalism sector, discussing the evolving nature of media platforms, and addressing the influence of digital technology on media consumption. Through engaging activities and discussions, students explored real-world scenarios and analyzed how global media impacts communication and public perception. Students actively participated in group discussions, reflecting on their perspectives regarding ethical media practices and the future of journalism. The interactive nature of the session fostered a collaborative learning environment.

Program Outcome:

1. Students gained valuable insights into the media industry's challenges and opportunities.
2. They enhanced their understanding of the importance of digital literacy and critical media consumption.
3. Participants developed a deeper awareness of career pathways within journalism and media.
4. The session inspired students to approach global media issues with a critical and analytical mindset.
